This civic art and peace movement initiated by German artist Rose Marie Gnausch raises the decisive question which society citizens want to create for the country their children will live in. Will they contribute to generate a shift of consciousness essential for the survival of mankind? Will they build a multicultural society where every creed and colour finds a home? The common symbol of this new movement is the elephant, a majestic and kind figure of great wisdom which, in spite of its size, lives harmoniously with all species.

Numerous artists and non-artists from Germany, Austria, Luxemburg, Great Britain, Israel, Poland, New Zealand, Canada, the USA and Cyprus contributed art objects, paintings or sculptures, to express their wish for a lasting peace in divided countries such as Cyprus, Israel, and Korea, but also across our small globe.

The project is organized in cooperation with the German Cultural Centre, Goethe-Zentrum Nicosia, EKATE, The Cyprus Chamber of Fine Arts and ARTos Kids University, ARTos Foundation. It is supported by the Embassies of Germany, Austria and Luxemburg.
